June 6th, 2020 - solarpunk is a genre of speculative fiction that focuses on craftsmanship munity and technology powered by renewable energy wrapped up in a coating of art nouveau blended with african and asian aesthetics it envisions a free and egalitarian world with a slight bend toward social anarchism standing as both a reaction to the nihilism of cyber punk and a solution to a lot of the problems'

'solarpunk ecological and fantastical stories in a

February 26th, 2020 - solarpunk is posed of brazilian stories from 2012 which aim to deal with green energy and ecology the preface cites le guin callenbach and robinson as exemplars but notes that brazilian green energy is not necessarily seen as an issue of the left or as a good thing it also notes that these stories are not as utopian as many on similar'
